Bio

Opus Trio is a dedicated trio of classically trained chamber musicians who specialize in Baroque and Classical music. Our members are William Bell, violin/viola, Jennifer Nash, violin, and Andria Chase, cello.

William Bell graduated with an undergraduate degree in Music Education from the University of Maine, Orono campus. He also received his master's degree in Music Performance from the university. His main instrument is the viola with which he plays in the Bangor Symphony Orchestra. He is currently in the Bangor school system teaching strings grades 4-12 and theory at the high school. He currently resides in Hermon, Maine.

Jennifer Nash holds an undergraduate degree in Music Education from the University of Maine, Orono campus. Her main instrument is violin with which she played in the University of Maine Orchestra and Chamber Music Program at the university. She currently teaches at the Etna/Dixmont K-8 school as the General Music Teacher, Band Director, and Chorus Director. She also teaches privately on the violin at R.D.L Strings in Bangor, Maine. She resides in Hermon, Maine.

Andria Chase graduated with a degree in Music Education from the University of Maine, Orono campus. Her main instrument is cello with which she played in the University of Maine Orchestra and Chamber Music Program at the university. She currently teaches at the Orland Consolidated School as the General Music Teacher, String Director, Band Director, Chorus Director, and the school Musical Director. She teaches privately on the cello. She currently resides in Lucerne-in-Maine.

All three members played in the University of Maine Orchestra together where they met. We are available for weddings, receptions, and any other events that require live classical music. We are based in the greater Bangor area and are available across the state of Maine and northern New England.
